The action came to trial last De-cember in the City Circuit Court, when it was amply proved that the man had not been on the car; that he was drunk at the time, and that he had been pretending to be an epileptic. He had claimed to have been a sufferer from epilepsy as a re-suit of a blow on the back of the head, received in the alleged car ac-cident, and it was brought into the evidence in that trial that he had firown "fake filts" in front of doctors offices to be found rigid and uncon-tious. He called the various doctors who had treated him, but did not put

YOUNG WINS IN IN HANDICAP PLAY

The Country Club of Virginia handicap cup, the finest cup ever given as a prize in a golf tournament in this city, was won yesterday afternoon by J. W. Young over a field of forty-nine players. Mr. Young was benefited by a handicap of ten strokes, but even without this his score of 95 gross was the best yet over the new course.

The play yesterday was the best of the three days of play which marked the opening of the club. Forty-nine contestants started out to go over the course, but a large number of these gave up the struggle after they had become hopelessly behind. The course is one of the most difficult in the South, and the players found their troubles scattered thickly over every inch of it.

The play yesterday concluded the three days of tournament which has obtained since Saturday afternoon, when the club was formally thrown open to the members. The winners in the various tournaments are as follows:

hole qualification.

One of the cups, intended to be given as a prize during the opening week, is left over, and the members of the club will play a final tournament for that trophy next Saturday. A great many entries have already been signed for the event, and play is expected to be interesting.
